CATECHISMS

RP The Catechism of the Catholic Church

Pope John Paul 11says of this book (11/10/92) "In reading the Catechism of the Catholic Church we can perceive the wonderful unity of the mystery of God, his saving will as well as the central place of Jesus Christ... This catechism is not intended to replace the local catechisms duly approved by ecclesiastical authorities... It is meant to encourage and assist in the writing of new local catechisms, which take into account various situations and cultures, while carefully preserving the unity of faith and fidelity to Catholic doctrine." LITURGICAL BOOKS

Do this in my Memory: Holy Mass

Russell T. ofm

A glistening diamond is enhanced by an appropriate setting. Holy Mass is the precious diamond glinting and gleaming at the heart of our Catholic church community. This book looks not so much at the diamond, as at its setting. The book is good reading and reflection for devout Catholics, catechists and pastoral workers.

RELIGIOUS BOOKS

RELIGIOUS & THEOLOGICAL STUDIES

Changing Beliefs and an Enduring Faith (A reformulation of Christian beliefs in response to five major obstacles for faith)

The book is essentially an apologia for the Christian faith in the modern world. After introducing a fundamental distinction between beliefs and faith, the former changing and the latter immutable, the author examines five critical aspects which challenge Christian faith today. Each chapter is appended with suggested group activities and discussion questions for spiritual introspection and self analysis of the student and reader.

African Christianity in Botswana

Amanze J. N.

In order to understand the concept of African Christianity in Botswana, as expressed in the African Independent Churches, it is important first and foremost to understand Tswana traditional religion as living faith among Batswana today. This is because African independent Churches in their bid to experience Christianity in African ways, have revived and continue to observe a great number of Tswana religious beliefs and practises some of which were attacked by the early missionaries as evil and detrimental to the spiritual life of Batswana.

Church, Law and Political Transition in Malawi 1992-94

Nzunda AM. S. & Ross K. R.

This collection of essays gives some account of the contributions made by the church and by the law to the transformation of Malawian political life during 1992-1994. No one seeking to understand the social and political life during this period leading to the current multi-party democracy, will want to be without this book.

Gospel Ferment in Malawi (Theological Essays)

Ross K. R.

The essays presented in this book are a plea for relevancy and contextuality in Christian praxis and theological reflection in Malawi, and indeed, in Africa as a whole. There is a profound concern for the translation of the Gospel of Christ in such a manner that it empowers the people to transform their society by living out the message of the Kingdom of God. A must for everyone interested in the role of the church in society and its potential for contributing towards social, political and economic change in Africa.

Christianity in Malawi (A Source Book)

Ross K. R.

The book is one of the first fruits of a Church History Project launched in 1991 by the Association of Theological Institutions in Southern and Central Africa (ATISCA). The aim is to improve the teaching and learning of church history throughout the region, particularly by enabling students to engage thoughtfully with their own church history. This book will admirably serve that purpose.

Guardians of the Land

Schoffeleers J. M.

Though Malawi and Central Africa by now are predominantly Christian countries, African traditional religion is still important everywhere and no student of religion can ignore it. In spite of this, there are very few books in print on Traditional Religion in Central Africa. We are therefore happy to offer this reprint of the book Matthew Schoffeleers edited in 1979 in the Zambeziana Series, on the traditional territorial cults that has become a classic in its own right over the years. We see this book as another step in building up a body of publications on African Traditional Religion in Central Africa.

Rivers of Gold

Ellert H.

Ellert's account of The Rivers of Gold is more of a social and cultural history than an historical record. He deals in great detail with the trade relations between the Portuguese adventurers and their African hosts, especially concerning the gold and ivory trade conducted on the highveld of pre-colonial Zimbabwe. But the writer's underlying this is, however, seems to argue how and why the Portuguese here, unlike in South America, failed to establish any lasting political and cultural domination.

NOVELS & SHORT STORIES

A Turning Point (A Collection of Short Stories)

Tafeni O. B.

This booklet of short stories is a result of our government encouraging women to venture into previously male dominated fields - writting being one of them. The stories all dramatise happenings true to life so they have both the power to entertain and educate.

Broken Roots

(A biographical narrative on the culture of the Shona people in Zimbabwe)

Chidyausiku P.

An effort to look through a people's way of life in a style that discards the humourless approach of a text book is the motivation, behind this book. Here can be seen a people's way of life as it was lived in the past in their beliefs, their values, their wisdom and their follies.

SHONA POETRY

Chakarira Chindunduma

Zimunya M.

This slim volume is a selection from poems written by Zimbabweans expressing their experiences during the war of liberation - a war which was seen from different angles by differentpeople. Some saw it as the frustrated reactionary behaviour of a misguided few, but the Zimbabwean masses saw it as their only means to rid themselves of the colonial rule.
